Viz Comics are all the rage

There's no doubt about it. Viz Comic is the word on the tongue of a whole nation. And this is your chance to play a part in the success story that has delighted a nation.

If you think you could sell any Viz Comics, any number at all, write to us for details of our attractive discount scheme '82. This super scheme applies to shops too. If you know any shops that may be able to vend our organ, let us know. You may win a prize.

Back issue

Regretably, issues 1 to 5 have all sold out. Number 6 is still available for 40p (incl. P+P).

READ & LEARN

WITH NAYLOR HAMMOND, Esq.

As you probably know, life on Earth as we know it today, is sadly becoming all but a thing of the past.

In recent times, famous ornithologists like Jonathan Miller have made biology a household name through TV shows like 'World Of Sport' and 'Purging Outlook'. However, it was the prehistoric explorer Charles Dickens who first discovered life on Earth when an apple fell on his head. His 'theory of evolution' became a best seller and was eventually filmed for TV in a series entitled 'Animal Magic' presented by Paul Daniels. Dickens believed that the dinosaurs which roamed the planet Earth in the dark ages turned into sharks, examples of which are thought to have survived to this very day in the deep waters of the Hymalayas. Other underwater fossils which still exist today include the ocean billed platypus which nests high in the eucalyptus trees of the Barrier Reef, a solar wave gathering device off the coast of East Germany.

'Animals are a man's best friend' wrote Joy Adamson, the well known lion tamer, famous for her familiar catch phrase 'walkies'. Her ability to communicate with animals earned her the nickname 'Dr Doolittle'. In her book, 'Born Free', she told the story of a herd of 'school' of wild rabbits who lived on Watership Down, a safari park near Windsor. At this and other nature reserves like Wimbleton Common, endangered species of animals such as the do do and tiger shark are protected by law from diseases such as foot, mouth and dutch elm.

Animals live in the jungle which is in Africa. This so-called 'Animal Kingdom' is made up largely of 3 types of species. Fish - a kind of underwater mammal; Mammals - such as reptiles; and Flowers, a kind of jungle plant.

Of course nowadays many animals are house trained, such as battery hens, (a kind of electric farm animal). These domestic type animals include both cats and pigeons, hence the phrase 'a cat among the pigeons' is worth two in the bush. The most common domestic wildlife is the 'pet', often a specially adapted dog or goldfish, often referred to as a 'dog fish' for short. These can be very friendly, and together with other 'pedigree chums' such as guinea pigs (an expensive kind of mouse) are suitable for home use.

The less enthusiastic botanist may find the more convenient wood pigeon a suitable purchase, available from most good model shops and hardware stores.

INTRODUCTION by top DJ Tony Blackburn

Hi, and a big welcome to Western Europe's most popular magazine, now incorporating Radio Times, giving you two sensational magazines for the price of one. Several minor administrative changes have resulted from the merger with the Radio Times. In future all complaints or correspondence relating to legal matters should be sent to the Radio Times at their old address. All other letters should be sent to us at our usual address which is shown above.

Adverts

Strict rules exist governing the amount and content of advertising in this comic, one of which is that you have to pay us some money. If you want to place an advert in the comic, write for details, but hurry, as space is limited and in great demand.

YOUR LETTERS

I WOULD like to congratulate you on such a READ-worthy paper. Best of luck for all future editions.

Isn't it about time we hotted up the 'cold war' a bit? No needs all this crap about 'arms reductions', best way to reduce the level of arms in Russia is to blow 'em all up. My message to Mr Reagan is 'Hit the button, Son, and let's see what that reds is made out of.

Isn't it about time someone brought back hanging? Let's face it. A villain who's had his neck bust isn't gonna be bothering the cops anymore. We can't afford to keep all the nutcases behind bars, so why not throttle 'em Haggles? We'd save a blenda' bomb.

And with all the cash we'd save we could get the coppers toolled up.

THE SHAKIN STEVENS STORY

A VIZ TOP POP EXCLUSIVE!

Pop idol Shakin Stevens tells the tale of his rise to fame in an exclusive interview with Viz Comic.

'Shaky' Shakin Stevens is one of pop's top names in the charts of today, riding on the crest of the wave in the revival of rock and roll. The hits have come fast and furiously, one after another, and 1981 has seen Shaky dancing on top of a piano on 'Top Of The Pops'.

SUCCESS

But for Stevens, success did not come overnight. As he told us, his spectacular shakin style had been developing since early childhood.

"I used to shake all the time at school. It came in fits. Some days I was quite normal. At other times I couldn't hold a pencil".

DOCTOR

"My dad was a big help in those early days. He sent me to see a doctor who gave me prescriptions for it, but this only reduced my shaking - it didn't stop it.

LEG

Stevens was ridiculed at school for his uncontrollable shaking. He recalls how at one time one leg was worse than the other. "One day my left leg was shakin' particularly badly, and as a result I couldn't stand still. I was going around in a circle for half an hour until the school nurse tied my leg to a radiator.

PRODUCER

Even at this early stage Shaky's dynamic potential had caught the eye of music teacher and former record producer Hit Jones. As Stevens recalls, it was Jones who gave him his first big break.

"Hit knew a guy who worked in the woodwork department and he had a specially adapted desk knocked up for me, which made things a lot easier.

CLUB

Ever since early childhood Stevens had shown an interest in music. He had collected records and at one stage saved up to buy his first guitar. When he left school, Shaky got his first big break in the business, working part time at a local club.

"I got this job as a glass collector but I was having a bit of difficulty with breakages. That job didn't last too long".

DEMO

After long and frustrating months out of work, Stevens eventually got together a demo tape. He carted it round every record company in London, and after a string of rejections, he ended up at Vicky Kest's doorstep, one of Britain's top record producers. "Vickey handed me a guitar and told me to play. Unfortunately it was a cold evening and I was shakin' worse than usual. I did a couple of numbers and before I knew what was happening he had called an ambulance. That evening I was admitted to hospital and doctors confirmed my worst fears - I was suffering from Bivistic Hipitis, a disease for which there was no known cure".

Next Week:

Shaky undergoes surgery and has his first hit on hospital radio.

Here is your chance to choose the name for the forthcoming royal baby and win a super prize!

All you have to do is pick one answer from each of the 3 sections below, and then suggest your name for the royal baby, stating the reasons for your choice. For instance, you may wish to call it 'Kevin Keegan Greenwood Spain World Cup 1982' (choosing football) as a theme. But remember, royal babies have lots of names.

The baby will receive the name which we feel is most suitable. The winner will receive a Solid Helled Silver leaf dispenser, as used by the Royal Family, kindly donated by the Kard Bar in Newcastle.

Young Cartoonist Of The Month

This month's winner is Ian Thomson of Newcastle

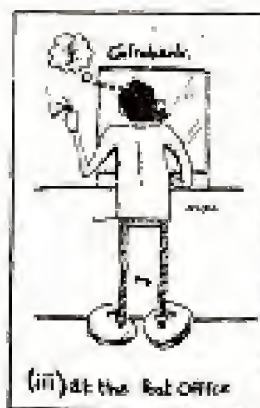

Ian, 20, is out of work at present and he chose unemployment as the theme for his competition entry in which he successfully set out to describe with ink and pen a typical week in his life. The judges were particularly impressed with the way Ian succeeded in capturing the stark realities of his predicament on paper, and described ultimately the contrasting emotions of frustration and anger by creating an on- going conversation between his rubble line-work and the harsh captions of his spacing. His winning entry is entitled 'Gerrit Doon Me Fuckin' Neck'.

(i) Signing on.

Winning the first prize of £100, plus a book taken kindly donated by Northern Arts, "I can't wait for the Fuckin' pub to open", said Ian when presented with his cheque.

RECORD PLUG *

Changes have taken place since we last featured Newcastle band The Hostages. After brief negotiations, anchoring bassist Juliet Paccina was released, in exchange for Jill Songes, Tim and Dave Cooper, and Dennis Cadillac. Along with old-timers Ray Byrne, Rob Brown and Dave Whittaker, they now make up a neat 7-piece, joined occasionally by roaming Steve la Sane, tromboner with The Push Monkeys, a neat 11-piece.

And at last the bands growing number of fans can hear them on vinyl. Their debut single has just been released. It features on the 'Airplay' side "Here's the people", and "In a minute" on the 'Homeplay' side. Of the two, 'In a minute' is highly recommended, and looks like a chart cert.

Perhaps you would like to go out and buy a copy. It is on the 'Thif Records' label, and available at all good record shops.

CLURBLAND ♣♣

Eyes down for the Chart Commandos

Look out Tony Blackburn! Hawaii Five - 0 is heading for the number 1 slot fast! Arthur 2 Stroke and the Chart Commandos followed up their first single, (a top 175 hit for the band), with a second - Hawaii Five-0 on the Logo label, and only a year after it's release the bouncy south sea anthem is already pushing for a place in the top 200.

I caught up with the busy band at a packed British Legion club in South Shields where they were setting the concert room alight with a combination of their own material and popular classics like 'The A Yellow Ribbon Round The Old Oak Tree'. Indeed, their first set went so well the concert secretary called them back after the bingos to end the evening with an almighty rendition of 'Five - 0', at which stage the audience dropped their dominos and began to paddle in the aisles.

How were the band reacting to life in the Big Time? "We're just about managing to keep our feet on the ground", said a jubilant 2-Stroke after the gig. In the bingos first prize of £10 went to Nigel Pollop of Boldon.

ALTERED IMAGES *

Fairytale comes true for sex kitten Clare

Meet Clare, (above), the beautiful Princess currently starring in the Altered Images fairy tale rise to success.

When we spoke to Clare and the band at their recent gig in Newcastle, the single 'Happy Birthday' had just soared to number 2 in the pop charts. Titch, their drummer, told us that he "felt like a king" when we broke the news to him that the disc had gone top ten, and guitarist Tony added that he had once been a bellboy at Hampden Park.

But the star of the show is undoubtedly Clare, with her golden hair and child-like looks. For her it certainly has been a 'Happy Birthday'. She was able to celebrate her recent 5th birthday with a Top Of The Pops appearance. "But there's a lot more to life than hit records", she added, smiling quaintly. "I wouldn't swap my Vix Comic for a number 1 hit. Never!"

ERN, NO ROGER.

YEAH, I SEE WHAT YOU MEAN, HMM! DIFFICULT ISN'T IT... HOW ABOUT 'FANOR-FUCKING-RAMA' THEN?

NOR ROGER, GAVIN AND I WERE! THINKING THAT WE SHOULD CHOOSE A TITLE WHICH FITS THE SHOW...

AND I THINK WE DECIDED ON 'UK TODAY! IT'S SIMPLE AND HAS A CATCHY RHYME TO IT AS WELL!

... SO DOES 'ARSEHOLE NEWS AND BASTARD VIEWS! HOW ABOUT THAT GAVIN?

NO, SORRY ROGER. WE DON'T WANT ANYTHING VULGAR. IT'S AN EARLY EVENING SHOW. A NEWS DOCUMENTARY, Y'KNOW. I THINK WE SHOULD TRY TO KEEP IT CLEAN, OKAY?

OH YEAH! OF COURSE, I CAN SEE THAT...

SO WHY NOT JUST KEEP IT SIMPLE? HOW ABOUT 'EUNT'?

I THINK YOU'D BETTER GO TO THE STATION CONTROLLER'S OFFICE, ROGER. HE WANTS TO SEE YOU.

HMM!

I THINK IT'S ABOUT LAST NIGHT'S NEWS HEADLINES. HE'S HAD SOME COMPLAINTS WE'LL SORT THIS TITLE OUT LATER

LATER...

YOU WANTED TO SEE ME? I SUPPOSE IT'S ABOUT THE SHODDY CAMERA WORK ON LAST NIGHT'S NEWS. WE OUGHT TO GET SOMETHING DONE ABOUT IT...
